

The Climate Machine

clima.caltech.edu

Tapio Schneider

Low stratocumulus clouds above the NW Pacific

Learning the climate

A new data-driven climate model will use satellite observations and high-resolution simulations to learn how best to render its clouds. Similar methods will also be applied to other, small-scale phenomena, such as sea ice and ocean eddies.

